The students have learned about the warm and cool colors as well as the neutral colors which they have displayed in various ways. They have also created a series of small Christmas projects to get them in the holiday spirit. They are currently working on a lesson about texture! There are so many more fun things in store! They will work on patterns again with snowmen and they will work with more paint in the near future!

K

The students have been continuously working on holiday projects. They were able to create turkey sculptures for Thanksgiving. They heard the story "The Legend of the poinsettia" by Tomie DePaola and created their own Poinsettias. They learned how to draw the Grinch for their Grinch day party! They are currently working on creating patterned mittens!

The first graders have just completed their special Thanksgiving project! They are just beginning their Christmas project which will incorporate a variety of shapes and using those shapes as a way to view images in new ways. They will be using those techniques throughout the rest of the school year! They are currently working on making silly snowmen playing in the snow!

Watercolor Weaving by Amelia Lansdell
2nd

The second graders have been working with so many different types of projects. They have created textured houses, they have created watercolor painted weavings, and they have tried a circular weaving using yarn. They are currently working with oil pastels to create a snowman that will be displayed in a unique way on the paper.

Upper Elementary: 3rd to 5th

3rd

The third graders have been working on a variety of projects. They have been learning about weaving, they went on the GRAM field trip and have begun their animal project, and also worked on a Christmas project of sparkling lights using different types of pastels to create the glowing effect.

4th

The fourth graders have been busy working on a few different projects. They have learned about perspective with their pumpkin patches, they learned about weaving and are still in the process of completing that work. They also had a visiting artist come in and show them how to make their Christmas project this year!

5th

The fifth graders finally completed their yarn monsters, it took some time but they turned out awesome. They have worked hard on the monsters and some were even able to make habitats for their creatures! They were able to sneak in a quick Christmas project. They learned about shading and created 3D Candy Canes! They will be starting their crazy designs project soon!

High School: Art I & Art II

Watercolor Landscape by Amy Shaw

So much has been going on the past couple of months! The students wrapped up their watercolor paintings of landscapes. The students have been using a new medium, liquid watercolors. These watercolors are different from those used in the past for paintings in art class. The paints are already in a liquid state but are highly concentrated. The students add water to the paints to lighten the colors to create the tints and shades needed to create their final pieces.

As they completed their watercolor paintings they have been working on a cross-curricular assignment. They studied a famous artist in computer class and used their findings and created an acrylic painting that is a copy to one of the artist's work that they studied. Each student has their own artist and are able to learn about each of the artist's work through talking to their classmates and seeing the work that each of them create.

For the exam time the students created a gingerbread house out of frosting, graham crackers, and other goodies that they brought in to share! They were able to decide if they wanted to work as an individual or a group. Their creativity is their only boundary! There have been so many unique designs over the years!

Currently they are finishing up the semester by working on a mix media piece where they create a gemstone drawing/painting. If they have time they will also create a geode out of wool roving that reflects some of the colors they created!
