Shamrock Art Attack

Lower Elementary: DK to 2nd

About the Artist by Hudson Newman

DK

Over the past couple months the students have learned about texture, drawing themselves, collages, and creating functional art. They have been working hard and their art books will be complete for the art show in the spring! Looking forward to more exciting projects.

K

The students completed their special Valentine's day projects. They created love monsters after hearing the story of the Love Monsters. They also heard the book Van Gogh's Cat and created paintings which they cut cats out of! They did a great job. They have so many more fun projects coming up!

1st

The first graders have been creating a series of different projects. They have created several holiday projects. They designed special crosses for St. Patrick's day, they created Easter baskets with unique Easter eggs in them, and they finished up their patterned snowmen with colorful hats and hands in the air! They also heard the story Mouse Paint and painted mice using cotton balls!!

2nd

In the past couple months the second graders were able to complete a snowmen in oil pastel, a St. Patrick's day project, start a painting project which will be turned into ice cream cones, and they will begin a clay project after they return from Spring Break! So much to look forward to!

Upper Elementary: 3rd to 5th

3rd

The third graders have not been in art too much over the past couple months because of snow days and days off!! They were able to finish their creatures and had fun adding texture to their final pieces. They learned about circular weaving and will be completing those soon. Hopefully after Spring break they will be creating Chia pets out of clay!

4th

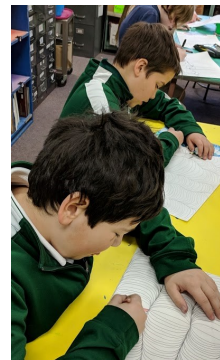

The fourth graders have not had many classes because of the weather and days off. They were able to work on their weavings and they are almost finished. They worked on creating a modern version of Mona Lisa. They are currently working on their abstract paintings. They learned how to use a compass and are creating a design using circles all over their paper. They are going to paint them using only the primary colors and then mix those together to create the secondary colors.

5th

The fifth graders have been working extremely hard on their valued crazy designs. They have learned about creating depth and illusion by using a dark to light shading within a curved shape. With this technique it causes the image to pop off of the page!

When they return from Spring Break they are going to create a quick Easter painting project.

Middle School: 7th Grade

The 7th grade students began art in January. They started by creating a sketchbook that they will be using the entire semester.

They then moved onto creating a drawing called a Zentangle. Zentangles are sophisticated doodles or designs. They filled a piece of colored construction paper with their designs and then used black markers, colored pencils, and a white color pencil to create value, tints and shades across the page.

Once they completed their Zentangles they moved on to abstractions. Abstract art is a design with no recognizable imagery, the twist with their project though was to use something recognizable and distort it. They used their names and created an image that turned them into more design shapes and the viewer has to really look to find the letters.

After they completed their name abstractions, they learned about weaving. They used cardboard looms and created a tapestry weave using a variety of stitches which they had to play with. The pieces turned out great and many of the students found the process relaxing!

They are about to begin working on creating a one-point or two-point perspective city scene. They will be able to create their own city and then choose how they want to complete their work by choosing the medium they will finish it with.

Keep an eye on Artsonia for their completed artwork!

High School: Art I & Art II

At the start of the new semester the Art I students moved from 2D work into 3D work. They started off by creating culturally influenced masks out of paper mache. They had to study masks of different cultures, look into what purpose the masks were used for and what the decorations on the masks symbolized. From there they had to create their own mask which will reflect some sort of culture and give a story on its significance within that culture.

The students moved on to creating their tape sculptures. They worked on creating two interacting creations that will reflect some sort of emotional response. They are cataloguing all of the steps they are taking in the groups they created to construct the structures. They completed their pieces and they are displayed within the school!

They have just begun the process of creating an orb shape called an Icoashedron. These are a 20 sided shape that will display a series of drawings of abstract imagery. They are looking through some images of Zentangles and adapting those ideas to their work. They will complete those after Spring Break.

While this project has been running the students also have been able to get a temporary henna design done as an extension to one of their weekly sketchbook assignments.

Spongebob & Patrick Tape Sculpture by Amy Shaw, Madelyn LeBlanc, Emma Scheurer and Colette Pohl

At the start of the semester a larger group of students began in Art II. They are working on a variety of projects and a variety of materials. They have created pinatas, paintings, sculptures, and are continually working on their own body of artwork for their sketchbook designs. There is also a group that are working on a Smash Book Art journal that is a series of challenges they must work through to create a design.
