The Amazing PTO

When the staff at St. Patrick School are asked to comment on the PTO, one word keeps coming up again and again: AMAZING! And when you look at the list of things that they do on a regular and ongoing basis, it's crystal clear that they really are an amazing group.

Audra Pline joined the group over a decade ago, and she bubbles with enthusiasm when she talks about the growth that she's seen in that time. "I originally joined because I didn't know a lot of people at the school and I thought it would be a good way to get acquainted," she said. "Now it's become such a big part of my life that I imagine I'll still be involved even when my kids graduate!"

Audra, who served as President for three years, remembers when the group had only 8-10 people attending the meetings regularly. "Now there are 30 or more," she says. "We used to be happy if we could contribute $500 over the course of a school year....now we have an operating budget of $7,000."

"I can't tell you the number of times we have needed something and the PTO is the first to help out," said teacher Stacy Russman. Emily Burns agreed. "They provide things for our classrooms plus spoil us with luncheons and gratitude."

Part of the current membership of St. Patrick PTO

Randy Hodge said, "The events and activities that are hosted by the PTO provide us with financial support and so much more.

These events are community builders, serving as a link between our school and the school families."

"We like to invite new families to attend a meeting or two," said Audra. Even if they don't have the time to get involved on a regular basis, at least there will be familiar names and faces when they come to the school."

Current President Angie Beckhold—whose middle names should be energetic and enthusiastic—epitomizes the group as a whole. Angie eagerly described some of the activi-

Benefactor to Help FFF Reach Goal of $2,000,000

An alumni who wishes to remain anonymous recently contacted the Father Flohe Foundation with an offer to help them reach their current goal of $2 million. The donor has offered to match, dollar-for-dollar, all donations to the FFF, up to a total of $100,000.

"We're just blown away by this generous offer," said FFF President Kevin Schrauben. "It definitely makes us think that we could reach our goal yet this year.

"This one-time opportunity means that your donation will be doubled immediately. In addition, if you work for a matching funds employer, every dollar that you donate will generate $3 for the FFF."

The Father Flohe Foundation is over two decades old. It was established to help insure the future of Catholic education at St. Patrick's. In the past 23 years, generous donors have given over $1.6 million to the FFF. The earnings have been used to help stabilize tuition and to help with programs at the school.

See additional information, including a way to make your donation easily online, on pages 10 and 11.

Al Schrauben Inducted Into BCAM Hall of Fame

by Scott Yoshonis for the Lansing State Journal

Al Schrauben has begun his 28th season at the helm of the Portland St. Patrick girls basketball program, but his first as a member of the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan Hall of Fame.

Schrauben, who was inducted into the Hall's Class of 2011 in September, has guided the Shamrocks to six Class D state championships, and four more appearances in the state finals since taking over the program back in 1985.

"I was certainly surprised but very gratified," Schrauben said of his induction. "It means a lot that the program is solid. Any time that you win an award like this, a lot of people are involved: parents, coaches and certainly most of all, the players that we've had over the years."

To qualify for the BCAM Hall of Fame a coach must have been a head coach of high school varsity or college basketball of 20 years or more and/or accumulated 300 or more victories. Schrauben entered the 2011-12 campaign with 513 wins, and as just the seventh coach to reach the 500-win plateau since the MHSAA began sponsoring basketball in 1973, the first in the mid-Michigan area.

Schrauben said that the key to his success through the years was making the game fun for his players, something that he didn't fully embrace at first.

"It took me a while to figure out that the game is for the players," he said. I thought I was a lot more ready as a young coach than I probably was. Over the years, I've had more fun, and I think that allowed the kids to have more fun."

Schrauben said that the family atmosphere at St. Pat's has also been a key component to the team's success, and that doesn't appear to be changing any time soon.

"I'm starting to get daughters of players that I had before, so I'm starting to feel a little elderly," Schrauben said. "Our roster names don't change a great deal over time, and I think that's one of the things that has made it successful. Older sisters and cousins have passed down our philosophy to the girls. We have a lot of traditional things that we do, and I think that's important."

Although Schrauben is retired as a full-time teacher at St. Pat's, he said that he has no plans to leave the girls basketball program any time soon.

ties that the group has undertaken this year, including the brand new "Meet and Mingle" which was held during Catholic Schools Week.

"We showed a movie in the gym, and provided babysitters there, so that the parents could go to the Parish Hall and get to know each other. We also welcomed grandparents, teachers and anyone else who is involved with the school. The weather was bad that day, but we still had a great turnout, and we heard lots of positive comments."

More than one observer has noticed the similarities between the PTO and the St. Patrick Athletic Association. Vice President Tricia Beachnau says that is by design. "I belong to both organizations," she says. "Both groups work to make St. Pat's a better place. I can see that the PTO will grow even stronger by adopting some of the strategies of the Athletic Association. Plus, it will be

Father Larry and Mr. Hodge took part in a contest at last year's PTO-Sponsored School Carnival. Students paid money for wet sponges, which were then tossed at the two men. The game was a hit and will be repeated this year.

Joyce Kransz

When Joyce Kransz walks in the graduation ceremony at the Louisiana Superdome on May 12, she will have completed another leg on a journey to “Live God’s Love Out in the World.” Joyce will graduate from Loyola University with a Master’s Degree in Pastoral Studies and will accomplish a feat which she once thought was not only undoable but unnecessary. What she learned in the course of her studies is that, just as learning should be a life-long endeavor, learning about our faith also should not stop with Confirmation.

Joyce Kransz remembers clearly a moment in her life that seemed trivial at the time, but which turned out to be monumental and pivotal.

“Tom Jandernoa asked if I would be interested in joining the RCIA team,” she said. “Of course, my inclination was to say ‘no’ but instead I said ‘maybe.’ Six months later I was working as a catechist, along with Jim Moses and Russ Thelen, teaching classes to the candidates.”

Joyce was surprised that this seemingly random request led her into an arena that felt so natural and so fulfilling. The truth is Tom spotted something in Joyce that she herself had not yet discovered.

But, others had noticed it, too. A short time later, Deacon Don called Joyce and asked if she could lead a prayer vigil at the funeral home. Both Father Larry and Deacon Don were busy and couldn’t go, and they felt it was important for someone from St. Patrick Parish to be there to support and assist the grieving family.

Joyce felt very unworthy and unprepared to take on such a daunting task, but having lost both of her own parents, she certainly remembered what it felt like to be part of the bereaved family—so she said yes. She was nervous, but she set those feelings aside and tried to concentrate on doing the best job she could for the family. With God at her side, she did just that.

Soon, other opportunities were opening up within the parish, and Joyce was asked to help in other ministries. Again, her instincts told her to step back, but her faith propelled her along.

“I give a lot of credit to Deacon Don for nourishing a seed,” she said. “I told him my fears—that people who have known me forever would reject me in such roles. He said something to me that changed my life forever.”

What Deacon Don told Joyce on that memorable occasion was this: “It is because you are from here and you are one of them that they will relate to you. You have lived life with all of these people. You think like them; you are one of them. You’re only using the gifts that God has given you.”

And he was right.

It wasn’t long before Joyce found herself back in school pursuing a degree which was much different from the degree she had received decades ago when she became an x-ray technician. “I thought that my education was complete when I graduated years earlier. I had no idea that God would lead me on a completely different path,” she said.

She received a bachelor’s degree in Theology from Siena Heights University in 2007 and began working on her masters.

People who know her aren’t surprised at the direction that Joyce’s life has taken. She grew up in a large Catholic family, the fourth of six children. Though she never attended St. Patrick School, she observed and learned the importance of faith from her parents.

When she was an elementary student, her mother cooked meals for the Sisters at St. Pat’s School. Joyce tagged along and developed a friendship with Sister Kit Kaiser. It is a strong and lasting friendship that exists, yet today. Through Sister Kit, Joyce has also become close to many other Sisters and enjoys spending time with them at Nazareth. In 2008 she proudly and joyfully became an Associate of the Congregation of St. Joseph.

“I have been blessed to be supported by the Sisters and here at St. Pat’s by Father Larry and Deacon Don,” she said. “They encouraged me to step out of my comfort zone and reminded me that lifelong learning applies to faith as well as life. There’s always more to learn...and I am hooked!”

The State of the School

by Principal Randy Hodge

The 2011/2012 school year has been going very well at St. Patrick School. Our students have been working hard and growing and maturing academically, spiritually, physically, and socially.

We also have been blessed to have our school enrollment continuing to grow. We currently have 104 high school students which is the most since the Class of 2006 graduated. Our total enrollment has increased to 364 students which is a 10% increase from last school year. We are expecting this trend to continue and are anticipating an increase in enrollment for next school year.

We are continuing to upgrade and improve technology throughout the school. Currently, seven classrooms have ceiling mounted projectors and Smartboards mounted for teacher and student use. We would like to have elementary classrooms completely modernized with ceiling-mounted projectors and Smartboards by the beginning of the 2012-13 school year.

We are still evaluating the use of laptop computers, iPads, and other technology. There is much debate about iPads versus laptop computers. We value any input from alumni who have expertise in this area.

Our School Commission is in the process of transforming from an advisory role to a School Board with limited jurisdiction. They will have input in strategic planning and on formulating some school policies next year.

We are evaluating how we schedule high school students to see if it is possible for them to gain more college credit before graduation from high school.

We are excited that the softball field's final phases will be completed and St. Patrick School will host the softball and baseball districts this spring at Father Flohe Field.

Thank you for the support of St. Patrick School. We are blessed to have the opportunity to run a Preschool through 12th grade facility with the limited resources we have available. The success we have comes from so many individuals willing to share their time, talent, treasure, and prayers.

School Board Role Evolves

by School Board Chair Jen Meredith

As you may recall from the fall issue of the Shamrock Newsletter, I discussed the recommendation of the Grand Rapids Diocese for School Commissions to transition to a Board of Directors with Limited Jurisdiction. This change will allow for the Board to more formally assist the Pastor and Principal in the governance of St. Patrick School. The main goal of the Commission for this academic year has been to thoughtfully review the guidance and recommendations of the Diocese and prepare for the implementation of the School Board this September. To this point, I would like to update you on the progress the Commission has made toward this goal.

The Commission has determined that the School Board of Directors will consist of 11 members and will be comprised of current Commission members, as well as parents, alumni/parents of alumni, leaders within the civic, business, and professional communities, and finally, other parishioners. Parents of currently enrolled children will make up not more than 40% of the board to maximize broader, long range planning. While current Commission members will be responsible for iden-

Big Rocks Little Rocks

One of the things we enjoy at St. Patrick School is having all of our DK-12th grade students under one roof. This simple arrangement helps foster the family atmosphere that is so important to us. Our popular and successful Big Rocks/Little Rocks program would not be possible if our students were housed in different buildings.

Big Rocks/Little Rocks began many years ago and initially was a small program that involved only a few students. Over time, we saw the positive results of the program and looked for ways to extend it to all of the students. By merging Big Rocks/Little Rocks with our Church Buddies program, we now have a top-notch program that contributes positively to our entire school family.

How does it work? When a student enters St. Patrick School as a DK or Kindergarten student, (s)he becomes a Little Rock and is assigned a Big Rock 6th or 7th grade student to be his/her special friend and mentor. This pairing of students continues through the elementary grades, with 1st graders pairing with 8th graders, 2nd graders pairing with high school freshmen, and so on, up through the 5th graders being paired with seniors. With few exceptions, the Big Rocks and Little Rocks remain a team until the younger student reaches 6th grade.

The older students take on the responsibilities of assisting their younger elementary peers throughout the school year with the positive benefit of being reminded regularly they are role models with little eyes watching them. "I love this program," said 8th grader Nick Coyne. "I can see a younger me in my buddy Isaiah Pelc. I like to see him growing in knowledge. He is very fun to talk to and mess around with."

by Athletic Association President Dan Lawless

Despite facing our largest budget ever, the hard work and generosity of our school parents and community has put us on target to meet all of our expenses for the school year without requiring our athletes to pay-to-play.

Some of our accomplishments for this school year:

- We acquired a new scoreboard for our football field. One of our parents spotted a discarded scoreboard at Saranac High School. Saranac HS graciously gave it to us, and with the help of many volunteers, it was transported back to St. Pat's and refurbished. Our cost—$0! Thank you to Mike Goodman who, in memory of his father, the late Jim Goodman, Sr., painted it. What other school has the volunteers with the knowledge, skills and resources to do this?

- We're very proud of our new softball field, and improved baseball field which also are the result of thousands of hours of volunteer work. Thank you to Tony Dixon and Bill Vallier for heading up this effort and to everyone who helped out. The field is nearly 100% complete, with only some fencing and netting left to do. The new fields will allow us to host the District Tournament in June.

- We added a women's cross country team to our roster of sports.

- We are holding an ongoing scrap metal drive to raise additional funds. If you have scrap metal that you would like to have picked up, please call Tony Dixon (517) 204-7381 or Randy Pung (517) 719-4257.

Next year we will begin another chapter in our athletic history when we become the first team in the area to participate in 8-man football. We will remain a member of the CMAC in all other sports, but for football we will belong to the Southern Michigan 8-Man conference and play against Battle Creek St. Phillip, Burr Oak, Tekonsha, Waldron, and Litchfield. The MHSAA sponsored the first-ever 8-man football state championship tournament this year.

There will be a few changes to get used to, but AD Pat Russman feels that it's a great opportunity for our students and will make the Shamrocks a competitive team once again.

Children's Faith Formation

by Lori Thelen

Every Monday night during the school year, 183 students (including 28 homeschooled students) meet in church at 6:30 p.m. for a short prayer service with energetic music before heading over to school where they break into groups for the remainder of the evening.

This year we have 50 second-grade students preparing for First Communion and 56 eighth-grade students preparing for Confirmation. The other grades are learning about various aspects of their Catholic faith.

St. Pat's Scrip Program

by Ralph Willemin

Participation in the Scrip Program at St. Pat's increased tremendously in 2011 with our overall volume up by $123,000 over 2010. Our goal has always been to exceed $1,000,000 in sales volume. In watching the past trends and projecting continued growth, I anticipate that we will reach that goal in two years.

Although our primary participants continue to be school families, we have several alumni and friends who are now purchasing scrip and directing the proceeds into a special tuition assistance fund. Imagine what we could do with that account if all Shamrock grandparents or local alumni would buy scrip cards for just their groceries and gas! What a gift that would be!

Now is time to start thinking really big!

Gentlemen of St. Patrick Parish, if you are not already a member of the Knights of Columbus, please consider joining our ranks. We are a group of Catholic men who support the Catholic Church, the call to Religious life, and the Right to Life in every possible way.

If you are interested, contact John Vallier at (517) 647-6409 or Steve Goodman at (517) 647-7741. Come join us on our journey as Knights. You won't be disappointed!

March for Life

On Saturday, January 22, 2012, fifteen high school students from our parish along with chaperones joined teens from other area Catholic parishes for a whirlwind bus trip to Washington D.C. where they participated in the March for Life.

The bus pulled out at 7:00 p.m., and after an overnight trip arrived in the capital at 7:30 a.m. First thing on the agenda was breakfast, then the group attended Mass at the National Shrine before heading to Constitution Avenue for the march.

There, the group from mid-Michigan joined forces with nearly a half million other people who were there on a cold and damp Monday afternoon to enthusiastically bear witness to the sanctity of life from the moment of conception.

St. Patrick senior, Devin Ryan said, "It felt good to be there, standing up for the rights of the unborn babies." Classmate, Joe Jandernoa added, "We saw pictures of aborted babies, which were very eye-opening. It filled me with a passion for life."

By 5:30 p.m. the group was back on the bus, headed for home, arriving at 6:00 a.m. Their 35-hour whirlwind trip was over, but all agreed that it was worth every second.

husband's battle with cystic fibrosis and his subsequent lung transplant. The Festival of Tables netted over $2200 for the Portland Area Ministerial Association.

- On March 17, 2012, we hosted the 3rd Senior Citizen Appreciation Dinner in the Parish Hall. All parishioners who are 75 or older were invited for a delicious meal, entertainment, and door prizes.

- We are currently helping with the Lenten Soup Suppers, which are held every Friday night during Lent.

- Save the Date! We'll be hosting the Annual Parish Picnic on Sunday, July 22, in Alton Park.

WELCOME TO NEW STAFF MEMBERS!

We would like to welcome two new members to the Shamrock Editorial Staff. Anne Bennett (1985) and Ashley (Ingram, 2000) Kliever have joined the crew and will be helping us put the newsletter together.

Don't forget: We're ALWAYS grateful when readers contact us with ideas for future articles or to tell us about noteworthy alumni—and those alumni articles are the ones that people love to read.

Send your ideas and suggestions! You can write an article yourself or give us contact information and we'll do the writing for you.

And, as always, remember to send in information for the What's Happening pages. We used to rely on the local paper for much of this information, but few people use the newspaper to announce births, engagements, or weddings any more, so we really need help!

Thank you from all of us on the staff!

Welcoming and Social Committee

by Sue Kreiner

The Welcoming and Social Committee continues to be busy with various parish activities:

- On November 5, 2011, we hosted the 2nd Ethnic Dinner. Participants served dishes from Poland, China, Mexico, the Phillipines, Italy, Germany, Israel, and Venezuela. Nearly 200 guests enjoyed an amazing meal. Thank you to the members of St. Pat's Junior class who helped with set-up, serving, and clean-up.

- On February 4, 2012, we joined forces with other churches in Portland for the Annual Festival of Tables. Twenty-seven tables were beautifully decorated and hosted by women from the churches. Over 250 guests (women only at this event!) enjoyed a wonderful meal and an inspiring talk by St. Patrick alumna Sharon (Lenneman) Page, who told the story of her

Sharon Page's talk, Second Chances, told the story of her husband's lung transplant and stressed the importance of organ donation.

Class of 1962 Save the date!

On Saturday, September 8, you will be the Guests of Honor at a celebration held in your honor at St. Patrick Parish Hall.

Invitations and complete information will be mailed. Hope to see all of you there!

Dear Alumni and Friends,

Did you know that since 1989 generous donors such as yourselves have contributed over $1.6 million to the Father Flohe Foundation? Did you know that since 1989, your contributions have enabled the Father Flohe Foundation to contribute over $859,000 to the school? Imagine the possibilities! What if the foundation had $10 million in assets and could contribute $500,000 a year to the school! What an incredible difference that could make! While this sounds like a lofty goal, it is one that we definitely hope to achieve. But like most lofty goals, it is too large a task to undertake all at once. Do you recall the goal of the founding members of the foundation? $1 million seemed like quite a stretch when they were starting from $0. But the goal was reached in the year 2000---it took just over ten years.

So what's next? How about a goal of $2 million? As of June 30, 2011, the balance stands at $1,625,000. That means we need about $375,000 in contributions to meet this next milestone. And right now, thanks to a very generous offer from an anonymous benefactor, who is also a graduate of St. Patrick School, we have a unique opportunity to hit that goal. This donor is willing to match your contributions to the Father Flohe Foundation, dollar-for-dollar, up to a total of $100,000. That means for every dollar you donate, the Foundation will receive two. That absolutely puts this goal within reach this year.

Please take a moment to look through the Shamrock and notice all the great things going on in St. Patrick School and all the great things that have happened in the past. Give this some thought and consider making a tax deductible contribution to the Father Flohe Foundation. Through your financial donations and prayers, you can help us ensure that Catholic Education will be available for future generations, and with your help, the Foundation and the School will continue to prosper and grow.

KING'S KOLUMN

Catholic Schools Week Homily

by Father Larry King, February 5, 2012

We gather here this morning as a parish to celebrate the conclusion of Catholic Schools Week – an annual event where we THANK GOD for his blessings on this parish ministry of St. Patrick. The theme this year has been “Catholic Schools: Faith, Academics, Service.”

St. Patrick Catholic School is a ministry of St. Patrick Parish – whether you send your children to St. Patrick School or not. Why is that? It is because the majority of Catholic Church leadership across the country - whether ordained leadership or lay leadership - comes out of Catholic Schools.

Now I can't say that I know all the reasons for this reality, but I can point to one factor that really stands out, the fact that in a Catholic School children are immersed on a daily basis in a Christ-centered education. Now, in saying that I don't mean to imply that Christ is not present in public schools, for Christ truly is present there too. He is present in the good people that work there – some of them are Catholic and from our own parish. They do their best to model the love of Christ to their students by how they treat them. Unfortunately and regrettably, however, they are handcuffed by our laws that forbid them to speak about God or Jesus Christ or Church or religion, or their own faith in any way, shape or form.

That is not the case at Catholic Schools. The children at St. Patrick School and other Catholic Schools – and I want to emphasize this point once again because this is the primary reason for sending a child to a Catholic School – is that they are immersed in a Christ-centered education. Jesus Christ can be proclaimed without fear of retribution. The faculty can speak about God, and they can speak about their own faith, and they can bring God into every aspect of the academics that they teach so that students understand in practical ways how God works in the world and that God is part of everything that we do and is not just for an hour on Sunday. The faculty is allowed and encouraged to pray openly with their students, and for their students, and for the families of their students, as well as any needs in our world.

When all is said and done, in the grand scale of things, more than anything else, isn't it faith in Jesus Christ and helping children to grow in their relationship with Jesus Christ that we want for our children? Our society today more and more wants us to ignore or eliminate any talk of God from our lives, as if God doesn't exist or is uninvolved in our daily lives. We are flooded with anti-Christian and anti-God messages all the time in the media. What is there to counteract these anti-God messages?

For public school students, here at St. Patrick Parish we have our Faith Formation classes for children, but that is only 90-minutes a week and possibly add another hour for Sunday Mass – that's not much. In Catholic Schools children get

God-messages all day long in a variety of ways – most of them very overt and intentional.

Now, having said all that, let me emphasize that the primary teachers of faith and relationship with Jesus are you, the parents. The Church, and St. Patrick School as well, are here only to assist you parents in passing on the faith to your children. So much depends on whether or not you parents are living out your faith at home on a day-to-day basis. Children learn what you parents live!

SCHOOL BOARD EVOLVES

tifying and recruiting new members to the Board, Father Larry will have final approval of all Board members. During the initial appointment, members will be assigned to staggered terms of 1 to 3 years with the option of renewal for 3 additional years. The Board will have direct responsibility to Father Larry, and through him, the Diocese.

The work of the Board will be largely carried out through standing committees. These committees will have as their primary concern the ministry of Catholic education through strategic planning, execution of initiatives and the formulation of policies related to academic, student, athletic and faith community affairs. While standing committees must be chaired by a School Board member, the remaining members will come from outside of Board membership. Therefore, one can serve on a standing committee that highlights their talents and interests without having to serve on the "official" School Board. For example, if you have a particular interest in marketing, you can serve on the public relations committee without having to attend School Board meetings.

As you can see, there are a lot of exciting changes taking place with the School Commission. So, how do you get involved? The Commission is actively looking for energized and committed people who have a strong desire to devote their time and talent back to a school that gives so much to its students. If you would like to be considered for this ministry, please feel free to call Randy Hodge (517) 647-7551 or contact me at jen.meredith18@gmail.com.

Thank you to all of the current commission members who have worked hard during this transition.

CORRECTION

From the Editor: I'm doing a big Mea Culpa on an egregious error that made it into print in the last issue of The Shamrock—and even worse, the wording made it appear that FFF President Kevin Schrauben had made the mistake! I added an introductory sentence to Kevin's FFF article, and in that sentence stated that the Class of 1954 was the first graduating class at St. Pat's. When I wrote that sentence, I fully intended to go back and check the facts, since it didn't seem right.

Well, with a deadline looming, I forgot to do the double-check! And when my own issue of The Shamrock arrived in the mail, I saw the sentence and immediately knew that I had messed up.

My apologies to Kevin and the Class of 1953, the REAL first graduates!

Nick's classmate, Riley Pline agreed. "My Little Rock reminds me so much of myself at that age," she said. The reason I do what I do with her is because I remember my Big Rock and what she did for me. My Big Rock was always an inspiration to me. I hope that's how my Little Rock feels about me."

The younger students understand they are valued because they have an older student looking out for them, who is there to help them with special projects or just to say hello. They take pride in watching their own Big Rocks participate in extracurricular activities throughout the school year. Little Rocks usually can't wait to grow up and be big enough to have their own Little Rock to watch out for.

Each Wednesday on school Mass day, the older students go to elementary classrooms and meet up with their Little Rocks before Mass. They make sure their elementary peer has filled out a slip of paper listing any good deeds from the week or offering prayer intentions. The Big Rocks escort their Little Rocks to Mass and sit with them modeling good behavior and helping them become active participants in the Mass.

At least once each month the teams go back to the classrooms after Mass to work on a service project. Some of the projects they've completed this year include making cards for veterans on Veterans Day and writing letters to Santa for the annual Macy's charity. Later this spring they will walk together in our annual charity Walk-a-Thon.

They also participate together in fun events. During Spirit week they made signs to hold at the Powder Puff and Homecoming games. This year they completed a school/church scavenger hunt during Catholic School's Week, and another year they did Reading Month activities.

Principal Randy Hodge said, "Every time I see the students interact, from scheduled activities to impromptu high-fives in the hallway, I am reminded of what a terrific program this is. Each year the 5th grade students purchase and share a cake with their graduating Big Rocks during the seniors' last week of school and will often present them with graduation gifts as well.

"Essentially, we have found the sky is the limit for providing opportunities for our older and younger students to work together learning, praying, and in service to others. It is very satisfying to watch them come together and grow in many ways throughout each school year."

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS WEEK SERMON

Children are more apt to "catch" faith from you parents if you are living out your faith and have a relationship with Jesus Christ! That quite specifically means that you are an active part of this faith community and regularly and actively participate in worship. If you're not attending church on a weekly basis, then you are teaching your children that Church and growing in a relationship with Jesus Christ is not very important.

So, you parents have a huge responsibility – your children have been entrusted to you by God to lead them back to God! It is critical that your example at home leads your children to Christ! Again, St. Patrick Parish only has limited access to your children – and that access is so much less if your children are not in a Catholic School setting – and that puts much more responsibility on parents.

St. Patrick School is not perfect, although we strive toward that goal. We excel in academics – as is evidenced by test scores – and we engage the students in Christian Service projects to help them understand that Christ calls them to be good stewards of their time and talents. But again, when all is said and done, St. Patrick School exists primarily to immerse children in the Catholic faith – and we do not apologize to anyone for fulfilling this mission given to us by Jesus Christ as he himself went about doing in the Gospel today – to preach the Good News of salvation to everyone and lead people to God.

May we rise to the challenge of bringing our children to Christ so that He may call us "good and faithful servants!"

LOST SHEEP

Sometimes readers are surprised to find their own names or the names of their loved ones on the Lost Sheep list. Many times these people aren't lost at all; they have simply moved without letting us know. If we mail a newsletter and it comes back without forwarding information, we put that name on the Lost Sheep list. To prevent this from happening, you can help us out by using the form at the bottom of this page to let us know when you move.
